Abstract
The growth of the hotel business in Yogyakarta is currently increasing up. Based on data from the Association of Indonesian Hotels and Restaurants, the total of new hotels to be built in Yogyakarta reaches 110 hotels. With reference to these growth figures, hospitality management is currently not only focused on providing accommodation, but also going further to selling other hotel products, such as food and beverages. This research took a case study about the product innovation of Neo+ Awana Hotel Yogyakarta, with a developing event called "Fun Food Barbeque". The method used is descriptive qualitative with primary data collection using participant observation and interviews. The results shows that the first implementation of the Barbeque Fun Food event is not optimal, because guests are not interested in western food and also the menu has many things to offer. With the changing innovation of barbecue products into fusion food with a menu that is a blend of Indonesian food with western food, the Fun Food Barbeque event becomes more interesting.

The high volume of tourist visits affects the number of local and foreign investors to build hotels, from a one-star hotels to five-star hotels. Based on data from the Association of Indonesian Yogyakarta Hotels and Restaurants in the period of 2015-2016, a total of 110 new hotels will be built which are star hotels and economy hotels (Tribun Jogja, 2015). Nowaday, the hotel industry investors are not only focusing on accommodation providers, but also optimizing the sale of other hotel products. He made a Fun Food Barbeque with a European theme. At the beginning the event was held, it was still quiet and there were not many reservations, but after a few months the event began to get crowded. Then when the writer did the writing, in the kitchen section the staff was experiencing a vacancy of staff namely Executive Chef, therefore there were many obstacles that occurred when preparing for the Fun Food Barbeque event, including no person in charge to check food before serving, so the task was taken over by chef de partie therefore the food served is not optimal. These constraints cause food presentation to decline. In addition, the lack of innovation has caused the Fun Food Barbeque to become monotonous, it can be look from the food served always with the western food theme, so that guests are reduced and the Fun Food Barbeque Event becomes quiet. The vacancy lasted for 2 months, then in April the position was replenished by the new Executive Chef, Chef Ari Yusuf.

After the new Executive Chef, the Fun Food Barbeque Event changed its theme from Europe to a mix between Indonesia and Europe. These changes are food innovation and presentation. The following is an explanation of food innovation and its presentation:

1. The Changes of Menu
   The menu changes are presented by changing the menu which was originally pure western food into fusion food, fusion food is a blend of Indonesian and European food. The menu changes in Fun Food Barbeque include:
   a. Grilled Menu
      This menu is changed to Indonesian food including Javanese chicken skewer, maranggi satay, goat’s satay, chicken and beef sausages, Bali grilled fish, grilled mussels, sweet corn and vegetable skewer.
   b. Appetizer Menu

The combination of Indonesian salads and western salads is because not all guests like one type of salad besides the guests who come to the event are domestic and foreign guests. Therefore, the salad served is a blend of Indonesian and western salads, so guests can choose according to taste.
   c. Soup Menu
Changes to the original soup are potato and leek cream soup to Soto Bogor (Figure 7). This change in the menu of Soto Bogor is served in a cart stall to add a traditional Javanese impression. However, the changes to the soup condiment menu are not eliminated, namely French bread, because if guests do not like rice, it can be replaced with French bread.

The previous Fun Food Barbeque event was not having food stalls, then Executive Chef was added to the stall. The stall is egg martabak (Figure 8), full moon cake and Javanese boiled noodles. Each stall is headed by one kitchen staff and served with live cooking, its keeping food always fresh. In addition, live cooking became guest’s attractions at the Fun Food Barbeque event.
3. Food Presentation

Food presentation at the Fun Food Barbeque event that has been changed becomes more maximal. The maximum presentation of food can be seen from the appearance of a neater food and with additional fruit carving so that it adds to the appearance of the food becomes more attractive. The fruit carving is always replaced with the theme of flowers, plants, animals and characters, for example, floral, plant and animal motifs (Figure 9).

CONCLUSION

The implementation of Fun Food Barbeque event can be concluded that the Fun Food Barbeque product after its product innovation has become more attractive and innovative. Barbeque, which originally served western food, was not too popular with guests because barbeque products with many western food menus offered mainly in star hotels. The innovation of transforming barbecue products into fusion food, namely by mixing a menu of Indonesian food with western food, the Fun Food Barbeque event becomes more interesting. The winnings were mainly shown to guests from overseas, the authors saw that foreign guests were more interested in trying these products because they rarely found such products.

In addition to the innovation of food products, the product presentation at the Fun Food Barbeque Event is more maximal, it can be seen from the use of earthenware and stall carts for soup which adds to the impression of traditional food and fruit carving at the event adds more maximal food presentation.

Based on the author's description on the discussion chapter, some suggestions can be conveyed, among others, which are: (1) Improving product presentation at the Fun Food Barbeque Event, namely paying more attention to food garnish, (2) Adding the source of kitchen staff to avoid employee vacancies especially in important positions, and adding employees in accordance with their fields so that the services provided are more maximal, (3) Adding the source of kitchen utensils in each section in the Food and Beverage Department to be more efficient in working, (4) Adding the source of supporting infrastructure means air conditioning in the cold kitchen room to keep food awake freshness.
